DUDE, WHERE'S MY CAR?

"For the (ahem) mature set, this may be a familiar refrain, right along with "Did I lock the door?" and "Why did I walk into this room again?" In case your're feeling more forgetful these days, one health writer of a certain age takes a look at what's normal, what's not, and how you can shore up your wayward memory."

Amy Conway

If you said "yes" to any of the above situations, the following article has been reviewed and recommended by Steve Wisotsky.

270 PAGES OF MEMORIES

If you want to take a "walk down memory lane", and were fortunate enough to have purchased the publication shown on the left, take some time to revisit the contents. Sorry, I do not have the date it was published, but it was created in memory of our deceased employees at that time and proceeds were given to the Jimmy Fund. So many of our former co-workers have passed on, but they've left a bit of themselves in a family recipe or two. Can't you just picture Hank McCard whipping up a batch of Hermits, or Julies Siegel serving his Salmon Log. Or if you were one who read the cookbook from cover to cover, you would have found a recipe submitted by "Anonymous" for Elephant Stew as follows:

1 medium sized elephant
Salt and pepper to taste
2 rabbits (optional)
Brown Gravy (lots)

Cut elephant into bite size pieces. This will take about two months. Add enough brown gravy to cover. Cook over wood fire for about four weeks (650 degree oven). This will serve 3800 people. If more are expected, the two rabbits may be added. This should be done only if necessary, as most people do not like to find a hare in their stew.
